Pronunciation of Tube Stations

English pronunciation is not simple because of:

- Extra vowel sounds: London /LÁNDEN/, Borough /BÁRÉ/, and Southwark /SÁDHÉRk/ share the same stressed vowel, the strut vowel /Á/, and the same unstressed vowel: the schwa /É/. The schwa is the most common sound in English, but doesn't have a specific letter and doesn't exist in many other languages.
- Complex Spelling rules: Blackwall /BLÁKWOOL/, Star Lane /ISTÁR LEIN/, and Mudchute /MÁDSHUÚT/ are not considered difficult to pronounce by native speakers. Why is this the case? It's because of complex yet consistent rules. For instance, the letter  is generally pronounced as /Á/, but shifts depending on what follows—for example, /OO/ in <all>, /AA/ in <ar>, and /E/ in <a_e>. Similarly, there are two common pronunciations for : /Á/ and /UÚ/ but the sequence <u_e> is invariably pronounced as /UÚ/. Speakers learn these rules through associations with common words spelled similarly, such as: call /KOOl/, car /KAAr/, case /KEIS/, and June /JUUN/.
- Multiple Exceptions: Sometimes, even native speakers are not sure of the pronunciation as there are words that don't resemble anything else, such as South Quay /SAÚTH KÍl/. Other times, even more confusingly, they look like something else yet are pronounced differently, like Greenwich /GRENCH/ and Plaistow /PLAASTÉÚ/.
- Disappearing consonants: Some consonants are always silent, like the <c> in Leicester Square /LESTÉR SKWEÉR/. Others are usually silent, although you may occasionally hear them, such as the <l> in Holborn /HEÚBÉRn/. These are indicated with an apostrophe, and learners are advised not to pronounce them. Some are usually pronounced but optionally dropped, especially in fast speech. For example, <t> and <d> at the end of words when the following word starts with a consonant (e.g., Covent Garden /KOVÉN GAARĐEN/). These are written in lowercase.
- The 'r' Special Case: Standard Southern British is a non-rhotic accent, and <r> is only pronounced if followed by a vowel sound. For example, in Honor Oak Park /ONÉR ÉÚK PAARk/, the <r> in Honor is pronounced, while the <r> in Park is not. Nevertheless, these silent r sounds are pronounced in many accents, and pronouncing them might make learners more easily understood by others.
- Conclusion: There is no agreement on the standard pronunciation of Marylebone, with many considered correct. However, there is a consensus that /MEERILEBÉÚn/, though it might seem like the most obvious choice, is certainly incorrect. The chosen pronunciation for the map is /MAARLEBÉÚn/, with the weak /U/ glide of the unstressed /ÉÚ/ diphthong possibly barely perceptible.

L-IFA Phonemic Alphabet

The /LÉKAANYÉ INGLISH FÉNÍMIK ALFÉBET/ (L-IFA) is an alternative to the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA), developed for all English learners. IPA symbols are unfamiliar and ambiguous making it difficult to memorise words. I remember repeatedly looking up [bəˈluːn] and [ˈtɪtɹəʃ(r)] only to forget their pronunciation moments later.

In response, L-IFA was developed as a bridge between spelling and pronunciation. It retains standard spelling whenever possible (but removes complex spelling rules and exceptions) and employs only a limited number of additional symbols. It is written in uppercase to reinforce pronunciation over written form; while lowercase is used for silent r and optional sounds, which may be pronounced or not. Optional sounds, which are usually not pronounced, are shown with an apostrophe. Once I wrote my frequently searched words as /BELUÚN/, and /LITRECHÉr/, I no longer needed to search for their pronunciation again.

Standard Southern British (SSB)

SSB, also known as modern Received Pronunciation, is the trendy accent of today's multicultural Britain.
